CULLMAN, ALABAMA -- Webb Transit Super-Kits combine the ultimate in convenience and performance to make high quality brake repairs easier for the transit and coach markets. Everything you need to repair an axle is contained in one time-saving package including: two Webb OEM quality brake drums, four new brake shoes lined with Webb W43 FMVSS121 certified friction, and two OEM grade hardware kits.

Webb Transit Super Kits give their customers the benefits of single-source accountability with drums and friction that are tested and perfectly matched for optimum performance. These kits deliver real value to maintenance departments, operations and management by:

- Eliminating additional machining
- Increasing safety and stopping power
- Reducing or even eliminating brake noise
- Providing excellent durability
- Reducing driver complaints and comebacks to the shop
- Eliminating procurement of individual foundation brake parts
- Eliminating brake shoe processing
- Substantially reducing labor and overall brake maintenance costs through increased efficiencies.

"Working together with end-users we can develop programs that greatly benefit our customers and greatly reduce their brake maintenance costs," stated Randy McGuire, president of Webb Wheel Products Transit Business Unit.
