WEBB WHEEL INTRODUCES NEW BRAKE DRUM DEVELOPMENT AT MID-AMERICA TRUCKING SHOW

Louisville, KY (March 27, 2008) Webb Wheel Products, Inc., a leading N.A. wheel-end supplier unveiled their new brake drum technology at the 2008 Mid-America Trucking Show. The Webb Vortex™, a truly new idea in light weight brake drum design utilizing dependable full cast iron metallurgy, is on display at the Webb Wheel exhibit in Booth #34375-1.

Webb engineers, using their experience in manufacturing and testing heavy duty wheel end components, designed a brake drum profile which results in a lighter weight drum that does not compromise the structural integrity, reliability, or braking capabilities expected in heavier drums. Additionally, the unique patent-pending Webb Vortex™ design, with a re-positioned squealer band and reinforcing exterior ribs, produces a cooler running drum by pulling the heat away from the braking surface, maximizing lining life without sacrificing strength.

The Webb Vortex™, with its improved design made from standard cast iron material, offers the first truly dependable, cooler running, light weight brake drum for heavy duty truck and trailer applications. Webb representatives will work with major equipment OEM's to determine availability of the Webb Vortex™ on new trucks and trailers.
